

WINTER 2017

Fisheries & Wildlife Field Studies

-Study Abroad in Panama-

Conserving biodiversity in tropical biomes. (FWLD 270)

Dec 29, 2016- Jan 12, 2017, 2 Credits
Trip Highlights Include:

An ecological trek across the isthmus: Visit the Cloud Forest of El Valle including night hikes, Hiking in Sarigua National Park, Volcan Baru, and the rainforests of Gamboa. Enjoy a boat ride to Coiba National Park for whale watching and snorkeling, and observe the breeding grounds of threatened sea birds. Work with conservation biologists on the ground actively preserving biodiversity in these habitats.

SUNY
Cobleskill
Study Abroad

Participating Faculty: Carmen Greenwood,
 James Hardin and Michael Losito

Eligibility: Open to SUNY Cobleskill Students in good academic standing; with permission from faculty – all majors welcome. Alumni & Community members* welcome; as space allows.

Estimated Program cost: $2700-$3000 per participant plus tuition and fees.

*Alumni and Community members pay a differential cost of $565 in lieu of tuition.

$300 non-refundable deposit due September 1, 2016.

Contact InternationalEducation@Cobleskill.edu (Bouck Hall 116) for more information